

Kath Richards - Author Q&A

Kath Richards is a contemporary romance writer based in Utah, known for blending humor, tension, and unconventional storytelling into her work. With a background in technology engineering and a Master of Fine Arts in creative writing from Brigham Young University, she brings both analytical precision and creative depth to her fiction.

Richards is best recognized for her Morelli Family series, which combines elements of romantic comedy with mafia drama. Her debut novel, A Love Most Fatal, introduces readers to a powerful female mob boss and an unlikely romantic counterpart, showcasing her talent for subverting traditional romance tropes. Her follow-up works continue to explore themes of power, loyalty, and unexpected love, often featuring strong-willed characters and witty dialogue.

Overall, Kath Richards is an emerging voice in modern romance, gaining attention for her fresh, genre-blending approach and her ability to craft engaging, character-driven stories.

